Christopher Maurer

Chris is the principal architect and founder of redhouse studio. redhouse engages in all facets of architecture, from research and innovation in low impact material technologies, to design, fabrication, and humanitarian work spanning the globe. redhouse is working with NASA to develop living architecture that can grow off-planet in their redplanet workshop, and with MIT to create food security and housing in Africa from waste bush in their start-up, MycoHab.